Box No. V Reasoned statement under Rule 43bis.1(a)(i) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

1. Statement

Novelty (N)	Claims	1-6	YES
	Claims		NO
Inventive step (IS)	Claims		YES
	Claims	1-6	NO
Industrial applicability (IA)	Claims	1-6	YES

Document 1: JP 2002-146135 A
Document 2: JP 11-12398 A
Document 3: JP 2000-136281 A
Document 4: JP 2000-63607 A
Document 5: JP 8-239528 A

Claims 1-6: documents 1-5

The claims of document 1 describe a resin composition comprising EVOH, polyamide, sodium salt, divalent metal salt and boron compound and paragraph 0053 describes constituting a laminate comprising polyamide layer and polyolefin layer.

Document 1 does not particularly describe blending

- (1) a phosphorous compound, and
- (2) a hindered phenol compound;

however,

(A) document 2 (claims, paragraphs 0008, 0012-0013, and 0015) specifically describes, in a compound in which EVOH and polyamide are blended, the advantage of blending the compounds of (1) and (2).

(B) Document 3 (claims, paragraphs 0010-0011) specifically describes, in a compound in which EVOH, polyamide and boron compound are blended, the advantage of blending the compound of (1).

(C) Document 4 (claims, paragraph 0010) specifically describes, in a compound in which EVOH is blended, the advantage of blending the compound of (1).

(D) Document 5 (claims, paragraph 0021) specifically describes, in a compound in which EVOH, polyamide and divalent metal salt are blended, the advantage of blending the compound of (2).

This being the case, in the invention of document 1, applying the technologies described in documents 2-5, which are considered to belong to the same technical field, and constituting a laminate in which the compounds of (1) and (2) are further blended for the purpose of improving the characteristics of the laminate can be easily achieved by a party skilled in the art and the effect of such point cannot be considered as particularly outstanding.
